Chris Orr is of European and First Nations descent living in Melbourne/Naarm on Bunurong and Wurundjeri Country.

Chris produces digital printed art that explores the intersection of technology and tradition. His current practice dissects the very hardware that powers and dominates our lives – computer motherboards. By physically deconstructing these machines and scanning their micro components at ultra-high resolution, Chris reimagines their intricate structures as mosaic patterns, tribal in form and deeply symbolic in presence.

These patterns are then layered over antique engravings, creating a kind of visual terraforming – a cartographic intervention that overlays the past with the circuitry of the present. In this fusion, the once-static figures and landscapes of old engravings are reanimated. The rhythmic pulse of motherboard fragments generates a new kind of life; a swelling synergy that imbues the image with energy, movement, and narrative. What emerges is a patterned scape, a hybrid visual language where memory, machine, and myth converge.

This ongoing fascination with motherboards arrives at a potent juncture in the evolution of art, when AI is cannibalising it. This creates a paradox: 'To make my art, I need to destroy the machinery I use to make my art.'

ACQUISITIONS

2023 Served Bold, Geelong Gallery

2020 Motherboard Portal (Verde), ACU Art Collection

2023 Ursula Hoff Institute Award, Geelong Gallery Acquisitive Print Awards, for Served Bold

“The winning work for the 2023 Ursula Hoff Institute Award, Christopher Orr’s Served Bold 2023, is an exceptionally sophisticated and captivating digital print, which was, for the three judges, utterly arresting. It is a work that cleverly combines imagery from historical engravings with the intricate circuitry of a computer motherboard and it speaks to the prominence of technology in the 21st century and the power it exerts over every aspect of contemporary life.”

2023 People’s Choice Award (joint), Banyule Award for Works on Paper, for White Noise
